Founded in 1965, the Pittsburgh Society of Artists is the largest guild of the Pittsburgh Center for the Arts. For over forty years the PSA has been dedicated to providing its members with opportunities to exhibit and sell their art.

Through public dialog, the Guild has been dedicated to encouraging creative thinking about the arts.

Our general membership meetings, held twice a year, explore the arts with lively discussions led by knowledgeable speakers and educational demonstrations given by accomplished artists. As a thank you to the community for their continued support the general public has always been invited to these stimulating programs. Periodically PSA organizes activities for its members including special field trips to art museums and workshops.

The Pittsburgh Center for the Arts has a long, rich history in the community. It offers the PSA and its other member Guilds valuable resources not available to other groups. It offers exhibition space, teaching programs, and the opportunity to sell your work in the Center Shops. By Bringing works of talented national and international artists to the PCA's Marshall Galleries it offers members unprecedented educational opportunities. As a member of the Pittsburgh Society of Artists all this could be yours.

We cordially invite you to join our nearly 300 members representing all forms of visual-arts media on the life-long journey toward artistic excellence. If you are an artist looking for exhibition opportunities, a way to connect and network with other artists in the region, or a friendly atmosphere where you can advance your education, becoming a member of the Pittsburgh Society of Artists Guild is great place to start.

All due care will be taken handling art. PSA not responsible for loss or damage.
